FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

WOMEN'S FICTION WRITERS ASSOCIATION SELECTS KATHRYN CRAFT AS 2020 GUIDING SCRIBE

January 23, 2020, Washington DC: The Women's Fiction Writers Association (WFWA) is excited to announce award-winning women's fiction author and editor, Kathryn Craft as the association's 2020 Guiding Scribe.

Craft is the award-winning author of two novels from Sourcebooks, The Art of Falling and The Far End of Happy, and the author of chapters in Author in Progress and The Complete Handbook of Novel Writing from Writers Digest Books. She is long a leader in the southeastern Pennsylvania writing scene, as well as Pennwriters, and the award-winning marketing cooperative of women authors, Tall Poppy Writers. Kathryn leads writing workshops and retreats, mentors novelists through her Your Novel Year program, and is a regular contributor to top writing blog Writer Unboxed.

"The Guiding Scribe provides mentoring, cheerleading, and sound advice for our organization, akin to a poet laureate," says Christine Adler, WFWA President. "Kathryn has a depth of writing knowledge, industry experience, and understanding of the women's fiction genre that is invaluable for both new and seasoned authors. She is a well-known leader in our organization and her role this year has already been met with enthusiasm."

"The Women's Fiction Writers Association is a one-of-a-kind community where all writers of women's fiction find and share strength and resources to support their individual work. I'm excited to share my personal writing journey and all that I have learned to this vibrant group. As writers, we have a lot to say, but also a lot of questions about the art of writing and the realities of the publishing industry. I hope to shine a light on both needs and make our community stronger," says Kathryn Craft.

About

The Women's Fiction Writers Association (WFWA) was founded in 2013 as a professional, enriching, supportive, and diverse international community for writers of women's fiction. Now over a thousand members strong, WFWA is the premier organization for women's fiction. We are a volunteer-run, welcoming community that purposely fosters a climate of inclusion and opportunity. Whether you are an aspiring, debut, or multi-published author, WFWA offers resources to help you improve and succeed.
